Adding And Removing Registry Key TapeMaster Start-up

To confirm whether TapeMaster is executing correctly you can enable a pop-up that will display at the beginning of the software execution.

If you don't see the pop-up displayed, the software is being blocked from executing by something on your computer system. Contact your system administrator to diagnose what is blocking TapeMaster from executing.

If you see the pop-up displayed, TapeMaster has entered the execution phase.

Adding TapeMaster Start-up Registry Key

Creating Registry Key File

You will need admin rights to edit the registry file or execute a .reg file.

To add the registry key StartMessage automatically to your registry without the need to use regedit, copy the code below to your clipboard.

Windows Registry Editor Version 5.00

[HKEY_CURRENT_USER\SOFTWARE\GazillaByte\TMSSMaster\Options]
"StartMessage"="TapeMaster has initialized, click OK to continue"

Open a text editor, such as NotePad, and paste the code into it.

Save this file with a .reg extension, eg TapeTrack_TapeMaster_Add Start_Key.reg to a known location on your computer.

Adding Registry Key

Locate the file and double-click to execute the code to add the registry key.

Click Yes to continue.

The Registry Editor will add the registry key and display a pop-up informing you the key has been added.

Click 0K to close the pop-up.

Checking TapeMaster Execution

Run TapeMaster, the pop-up will be displayed as the program executes displaying the set message.

Click OK to close the pop-up and continue starting TapeMaster.

If the pop-up does not present, there is something running on your computer blocking the execution of the TapeMaster software.

Removing TapeMaster Start-up Registry Key

Once you have confirmed TapeMaster's correct execution and no longer want to see the pop-up every time you run the software you will need to remove the registry key.
